Senior: Cam Raich

Head coach Tommy Tipton, and assistant coach Jacob Frantz, joined the team this year to help the boys in improving their game. They taught the boys on the team to condition harder, play smarter, and make the opposing teams look like beginners.

(1) Junior Riley Creps fights for the ball against a fierce LCS team. Riley was a strong defender, always calling out what needed to be done on the field. (2) Juniors Brent Walters and Tyler Babbitt gather in their huddle to talk about what needed to be done in the coming game. These huddles often included "Stay on your mark", "Cam says to play defense today guys!", and "You miss 100% of the shots you don't take". (3) Senior Cam Raich reaches to save a goal. This was his first year playing, but he proved himself, saving an incredible number of shots throughout the season. (4) Sophomore Isaiah Rupp dribbles up field. Isaiah had a major position change from goalie to field player, and managed to adjust better than anyone could have asked him to. (5) Freshman Evan Bischoff dribbles down the line towards the goal. Evan plays tough no matter who the opponent, and shows immense promise for next year.

"We have a great group of guys that were willing to put in the effort. It showed all year, and I'm excited to see what we can accomplish next season!"

-Coach Tommy Tipton

"The pain lasts ten seconds, but the goal lasts forever."

-Captain Tony Renwand

Led by captains Tyler Babbitt and Tony Renwand, the team never failed to try their hardest in their games. They played tough, working through the inevitable injuries, not to mention the grueling change from a hot season, to bundling up in sweatshirts and sweatpants just to go to practice. The conditioning sessions pushed them to their limits, but the team pushed themselves and continued on their journey to one of the best seasons the boy's soccer program has seen in a while.

(1) Junior Stevie Vancil dribbles up the sideline. When he wasn't getting hit in the face with the ball, Stevie was one of the quickest guys on the team. (2) Freshman Charlie Southward battles for the ball, showing a more intense side. Charlie was the clown of the team, always cracking jokes. (3) Freshman Levi Makula steps to the ball on his way to the net. This newcomer was a much needed addition, scoring five goals this year. (4) Senior captain Tony Renwand throws the ball in. His hard work and dedication to the team encouraged the whole group to work harder than ever before. (5) Freshman Landan Jacobs clears the ball out of the defensive half. Landan's speed helped connect many passes up the field to score. (6) Brent Walters fights for the ball. Brent's ability to hang tough was completely opposite of his true personality, because he is one of the nicest and friendliest guys on the team.

FOOT

Below: Senior Center, Taylor Kuhn, holds down the fort at the offensive line against the Whiteford Bobcats in their second game of the season.

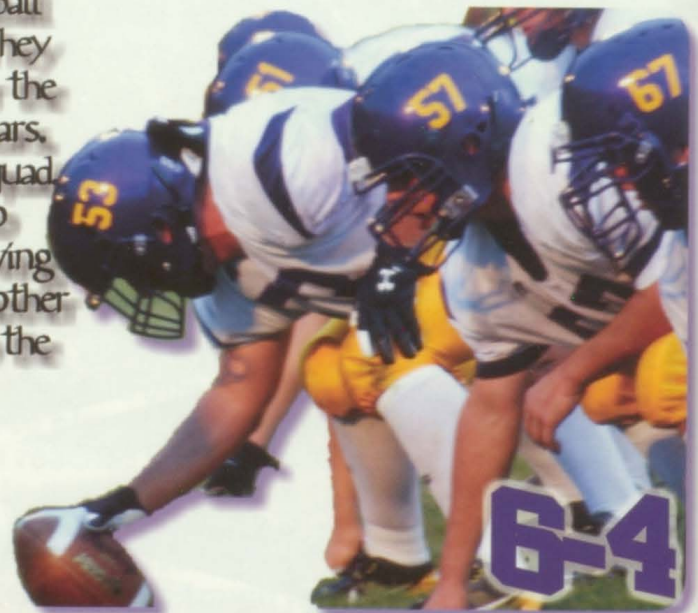

Coach Estes:

"It was another successful Football season for the 2010 Royals. They qualified for the State Playoffs for the seventh time in the last nine years. This was a very young Royal squad.

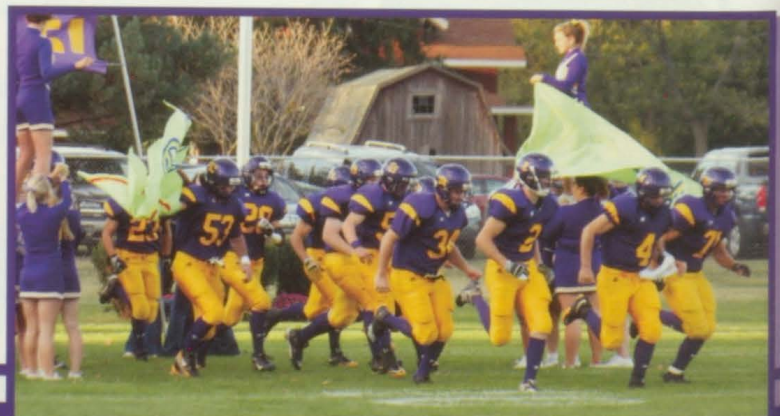

Because this team was able to persevere through youthful growing pains, the foundation is set for another run at a league title and trip to the Playoffs in 2011."

Above: The Junior Varsity offensive line holds their blocks up front and creates a hole for their full back, Brad Lietzke. Top Right: Defensive lineman, Tyler Watters, stretches out to block a pass against the Aggies. Right: Defensive Back, Grant Mitchell, stops the Sand Creek player dead in his track for a good tackle.

Above: The Sand Creek Aggies defensive line beats the offensive line off the ball. Left: Defensive back, Nate Wold, reaches out to bring down the Sand Creek Aggies' running back for a loss of yards.

cross country 2010

The girls cross country team had a very successful season (not only in Michigan, but Ohio as well), making it all the way to MIS for the state meet for the third consecutive year. At an invitational in Bettsville, Ohio, the girls took 2nd place, falling only to the team ranked first in the state. Coach Navarro didn't let a single weekend go without a race, which explains the wins at the Ohio invitationals. This packed season wasn't a bad thing, however, because it allowed the first place trophies to stack up. The boys team didn't have enough members to make an official team, yet those four still showed up to every event and ran their hearts out just for the good of the sport. Cross country is not only about running, but the friends and memories made.

pump up

Brianna Yates getting "the talk" from Coach Navarro at Adrian. He's probably saying it's a fast course, runs like perimeters, and Bertha isn't that big. He may not be telling the whole truth, but it's a pep talk. As you run, you gain experience from what Navarro says and learn that he knows what he's talking about and you should listen to what he has to say.

Brandon Curtis (AKA Fuzzy) was a sophomore this year. It was his first year running cross country. He was a positive source of entertainment for the team.

David Dheel (AKA Tall Man) was a junior this year, his third year running, and led the boys through the meets even with a less-than-team-sized team.

Eric Pauley (AKA Lil' Man) was a froshie, and probably the funniest froshie ever. He worked hard for his first season running, and has a very promising future.

Evan Schnabele (AKA Long Legs) was also a freshman. He was able to give David a run for his money on more than one occasion, also showing a lot of potential.

boys team

Lauren Yates and Tatyana Pless run through a creek Labor Day weekend at Otsego during the team's first Ohio invitational.

sharkbait hoo-ha-ha

Below: The girl's team having team prayer before a Hudson meet. The prayer was led by captain Brittany Holdridge and usually started with "Dear God..." and ended with "Guys, we've been training for this-- Amen!" The team saying this year, led by captain Lauren Yates, which always followed prayer was: "SHARKBAIT!" "HOO-HA-HA!", from the movie Finding Nemo.

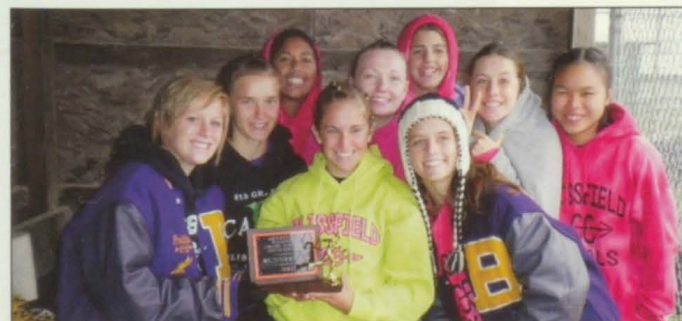

Nina Lepaus was a foreign exchange student from Finland this year. She was a gymnast in Finland, and this was her first year running cross country. She made the top 7 (which qualified her as varsity level), and always gave a great contribution to the team.

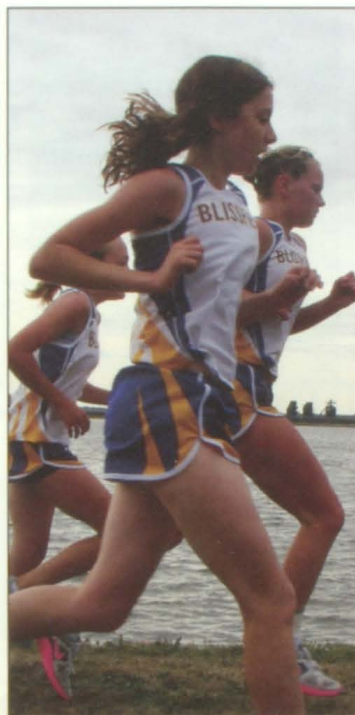

When you go to MIS for cross country, it's tradition to take a team picture on the track. Another cross tradition is expected of you at Maumee Bay State Park when Cardinal Stritch hosts their invitational. After a hard run for another win, what better way to celebrate than splash around in Lake Erie, fully clothed?

Below is the girls cross team at the beginning of the season in Tecumseh for the county preview meet. It rained the entire time, making practices in similar weather finally pay off! The girls took first in the county, helped there in the freshmen/sophomore race by Tatyana Pless, Meaghan Gunner, and Brianna Yates who took 1st, 2nd, and 4th respectively, and in the junior/senior race by Lauren Yates and Brittany Holdridge who placed 3rd and 5th.

Above: the girls team after their second race in Bettleville, Ohio. They were commended for finally giving Ohio's first place ranked team a challenge. Coming in second only to that team was a huge accomplishment and gave the girls the confidence they needed to get through the rest of the tough post-season.

Left: Meaghan Gunner, Brittany Holdridge, and Brianna Yates pushing each other through a tough race around a water reservoir in Archbold, Ohio, on their way to another 1st place trophy.

Above: Brittany Holdridge with Chayaporn Supapak (AKA Pop), this year's foreign exchange student from Thailand. Even though she had an ankle injury most of the season, she was at every practice and meet, cheering on her teammates. She always had a smile on her face, and was a very great person to have join the team, both as a teammate and a friend.

The 2010 cross season was Lauren Yates' 4th year running. She was a captain whom the team would "follow into battle", and led the way regardless of some hip problems.

Brittany Holdridge ran her 4th year as one of the cross team's top runners. She shared the position as captain with Lauren Yates and led the team to many wins.

This was Emily Wolfe's 4th high school cross country season. Her humorous outlook on life made running that much easier, and the team greatly appreciated it.

Autumn Owens ran cross country for the first time this season. She was a consistent varsity runner for the team, and her attitude was always optimistic.

seniors

(The mature ones on the team, of course)

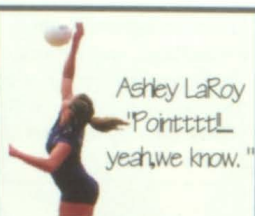

Left: The stat screen at MIS. Each varsity team and individual runner got to see their names on this giant digital screen. It was a pretty BIG deal.

Right: David Dheel, the leader of the boys team this season. Although he was only a junior, the rest of guys definitely looked up to him.

Below: Seconds after the start of the varsity boys race at Hudson. It never fails to be an intense moment.

Megan Krierim

"Gotta love the hard hits from Ray!"

"Pack The Chute"

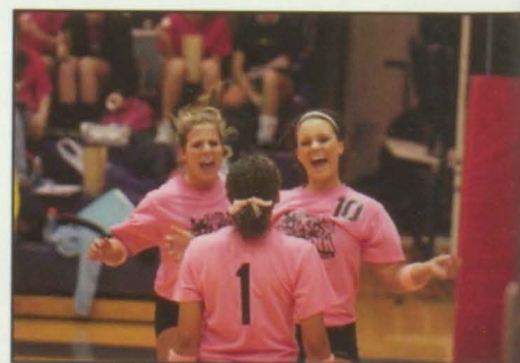

Above right: Junior Laura Goetz goes up for an attack on the ball. She was a meaningful asset to the team, having spirit, as well as hard hits. "When Laura's happy, everyone's happy!" Above middle: Seniors Zoe Brennan and Megan Krierim go up for a block. Zoe transferred to middle through the season, and adapted very well. Megan was also a much needed addition to the team. Teammates called her "Amber", short for ambidextrous, because she could spike with either hand. Above right: Senior Taylor Jacob attacks the ball. Taylor led the team in scoring and assists, and was top in the county. Left: The girls show their silly faces, as well as personalities on the back of the bus. Bottom left: Junior Stephanie Salters passes the ball during the Dundee game. Not only could she pass well, but she had killer backrow attacks. Bottom middle: the fans and student section were very supportive this year; they were always there with their cheering, signs, and the morph suit boys! Bottom right: Junior Shaurna Isackson awaits a ball. Shaurna always made everyone laugh, and no one will ever forget her halo headband.

Above, the team poses for a picture on the bus on the way to district finals. The bus rides were always entertaining, with many pictures being taken, the occasional song, and with someone always having to go to the bathroom. This year, the JV and Freshmen teams contributed to decorating the bus, and Mrs. Porter made goodie-bags for everyone!

Throughout the year, the varsity volleyball team came together, contributing many different cheers and sayings. Here, the team calls a timeout and regroups with a speech from Coach Porter, concluding the thirty seconds by yelling out their "You Go Girl!" cheer.

During the season, the girls showed exceptional spirit and recognition towards all their teammates, no matter how crazy they looked. Above, Seniors Ashley LaRoy, and Celia Coopshaw do just that as Taylor Jacob makes a play.

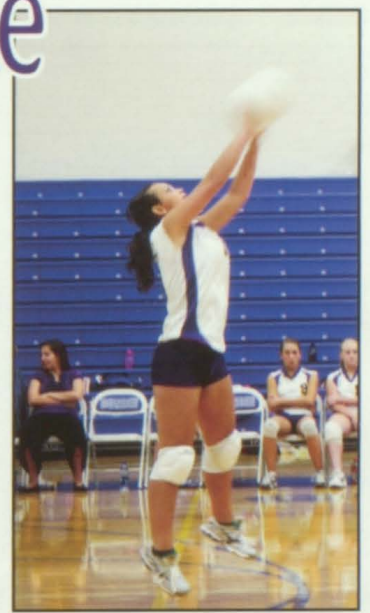

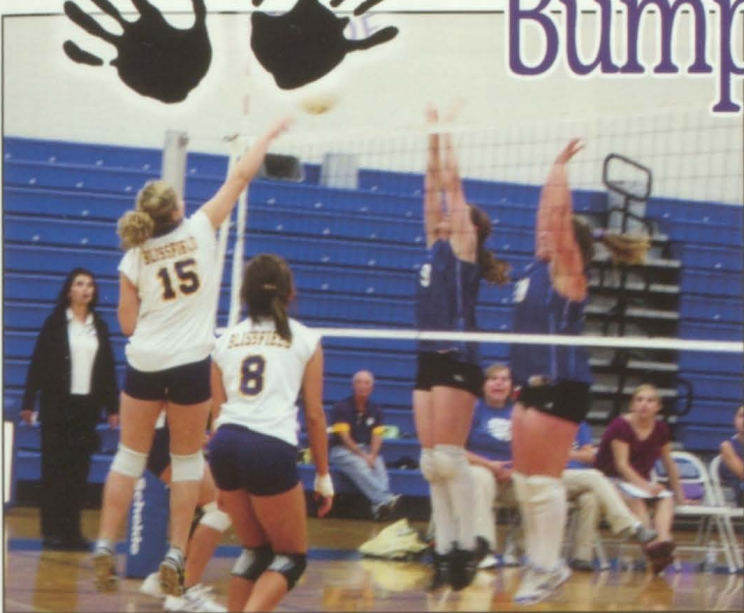

Left; Sophomore Brittane Toth spikes the ball down against Ida. Her skills and team spirit earned her a spot on the Varsity team during districts. The Varsity team loved her goofy sayings and how she cheered them up whenever they were down.

Bump, Set, Spike

With the volleyball program performing at such an outstanding level, the Freshmen team took on the Dundee JV team in a match-up that happens seldomly. Above, Freshman Devon Bostick goes up for a hit while Freshman Alison Crowley looks on. The Freshmen were victorious in their matchup, beating the JV Vikings.

Above, the JV team huddles around their well-deserved trophy after winning the Addison tournament. They defeated Ypsilanti in the finals to take home the championship.

Using your hands to pass a ball in the backrow is a scary task, as there is a high rate you can break your fingers. Braving this task, Freshman Emily Kasefang stays determined as she passes the ball to the setter.

Annually, the teams play in a Dig Pink game, where teams and spectators wear pink to support breast cancer awareness. Above, Kelsie Abbott wears her pink attire and attempts to block a ball.

Serving is a difficult task for some people. However, for Syrena Whitner, that is not a problem. She had many serves, and in return had a number of aces throughout the freshmen season.

Sophomore Corinne Dorneshot goes up for a kill against tough Ida net-defense. Corinne had hard hits that were rarely dug up. In addition, she was brought up for district play at the end of the season.

This years team kept up with old traditions as they brought back their basket backtuck every time the Royal boys scored a touchdown

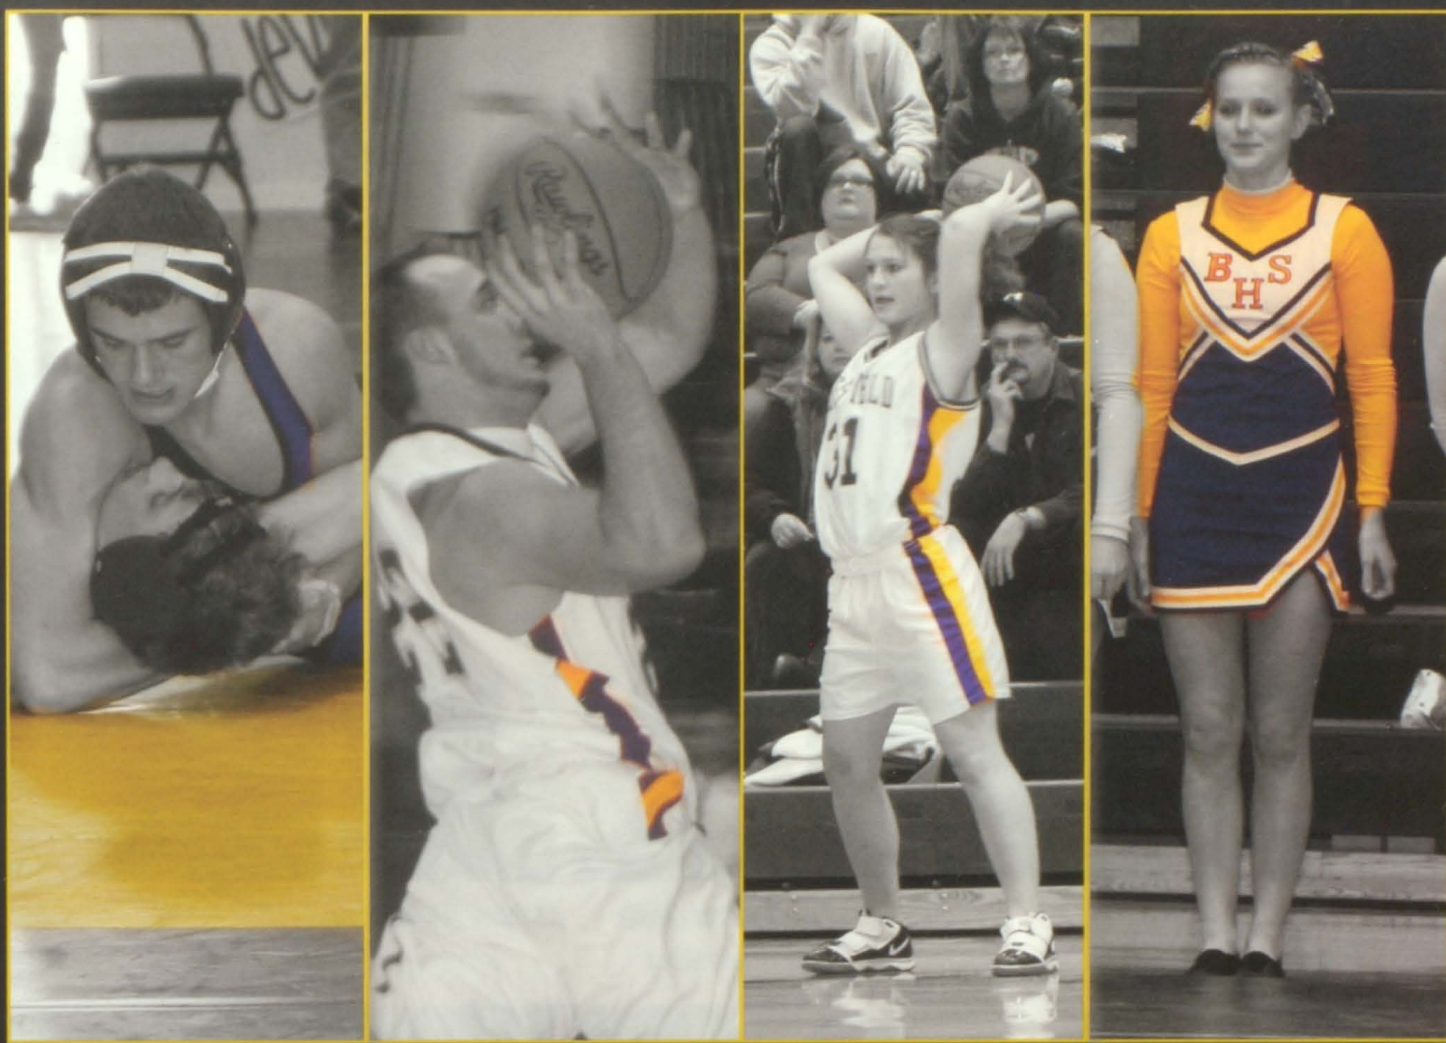

Sideline Cheer

The sideline team was very close this year. Every girl had a different nickname that described them or related to something funny and memorable that they did or that happened to them. This closeness carried over into the competitive season as well and helped both teams work well together throughout the year.

The sideline team this year cheered their hearts out at every single football game, getting the fans involved and excited with their crowd lines, tumbling passes and amazing stunts.

We Fly High

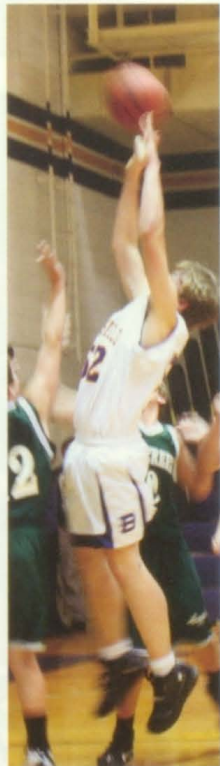

The boys Varsity basketball team finished out their season third in the LCAA. In the beginning, the boys had high hopes for the season. It was for sure a bumpy ride. Although, in districts, they ended up beating Summerfield a second time, and moved onto the second round. Though they lost to Dundee the next game, the boys ended their season on a high note according to many. Above left, the Varsity boys huddle up and get a pep speech from Zach Schaffer. Above middle, Senior Taylor Kuhn goes for a layup while a Madison defender tries to block him. Kuhn provided a lot of hustle and strength down low. Left, Senior Eric Schmidt makes a skilled move under the basket, schooling his defender. Schmidt led the team in many statistics, and as a captain. Right, Senior Jonathon McEwan makes his defense fall down as he dribbles past them. McEwan caused trouble for many teams as he had a wicked three-pointer, which was guaranteed to go in almost every time.

Far left, Junior Joshua Knorr grabs a rebound and looks for an outlet to throw to. Knorr brought quickness and the ability to dribble down the court very fast. Left, Senior Eric Diesing goes up for a shot against a Clinton defender. Diesing was a strong forward, and provided strength and agility down low. Right, Junior Devin Moore goes up to block a Madison player during the annual 'Pink Out' game. Moore brought height, along with an accurate outside shot and ball-handling. Many people come out for the Pink Out game, to support breast cancer survivors, and Kathy Stewe on her 60 mile walk!

The Junior Varsity boys team ended their season with a record of 7-11. The mediocre season last year was fuel to Coach Pooley as he took the boys over, ending the season stronger than ever. Top: Sophomore Isaiah Rupp is aware of his defenders as he plans to dribble past them. Top right, Cody Wulf makes a layup, and touches the backboard, as his defenders fly past. Above left, Sophomore Nate Wold goes hard to the basket, not letting his hair get in his way, and pulls up for a shot against Sand Creek. Above middle, Freshman Connor Vandecaveye dribbles up the floor and scans the court for an open spot. Connor led his team in various games, with no exception to the night he had a game high 41 points. Above right, Toth takes it to the basket with strong form as his defenders draw the foul. Right, Lee Keinath takes his time as he loads up for a shot while his teammates look on, and defenders don't even take the risk of trying to defend him.

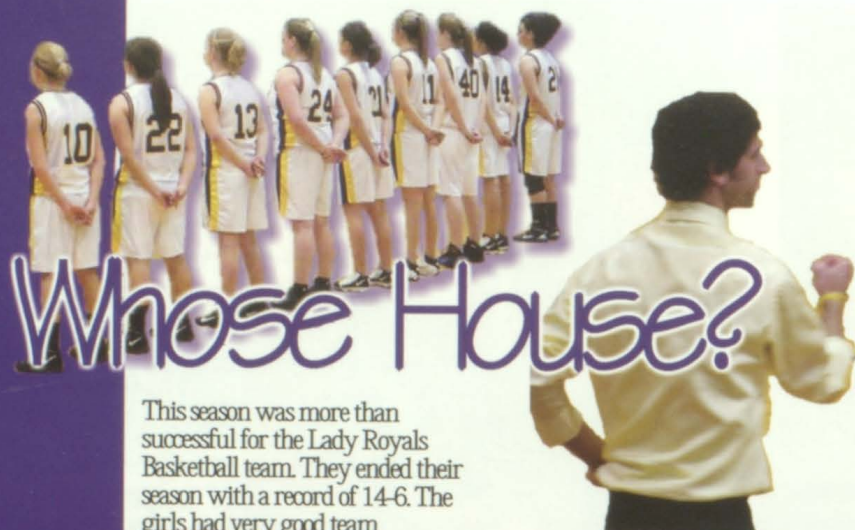

"Men's best successes come after their worst disappointments."

To the left, Freshman Garrett LaRoy dribbles past a defender. He was part of the boys ninth grade team. He provided a strong guard along with Noah Loar. The beginning of the year started out rough, but this season was a time of improvement for the boys.

To the right, Noah Loar receives a pass from a fellow teammate. Below, Freshman Dakota Suiter shows his mad ups while trying to block his opponent.

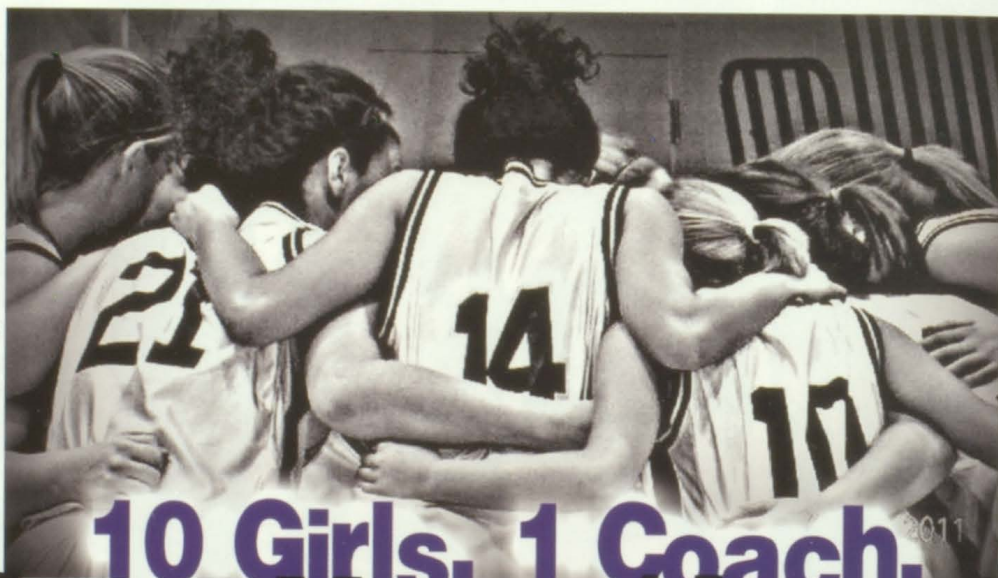

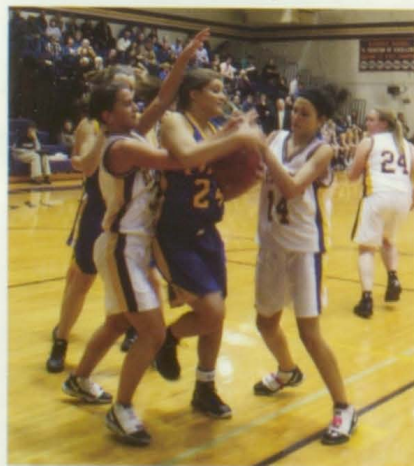

Whose House?

This season was more than successful for the Lady Royals Basketball team. They ended their season with a record of 14-6. The girls had very good team chemistry, as anyone could see while watching them play. Not only did they grow as teammates and friends, but they became a family. Above, Coach Gilbert shows enthusiasm towards his team. In Order - Senior Celia Coopshaw posts up a player from Summerfield as the Lady Royals defeat the Bulldogs in Round one of Districts. Senior Mackenzie Madsen makes a strong move against Madison. To the right: the team shows their chemistry as captain Celia Coopshaw pumps them up before a game. During the huddle, many things were brought up like staying out of foul trouble, watching your language, Laura's quote on her stomach, and coach Gilbert's favorite quote: JUST WIN, BABY! The girls played as a team throughout the year, and never had any drama, which is always ideal. It was a memorable season, and from Jamie singing, the prank phone calls, team bonding, and just Dance, the girls will never forget this season; this family.

10 Girls. 1 Coach. One Heartbeat

Senior Taylor Jacob and Junior Laura Goetz fight after a ball against LCAA rivals, Ida. The Royals fell to them at home, but revengeful, beat them at Ida. The win, after a hard buzzer-beater loss against Onsted, put the Royals in a 2nd place league finish.

The girls huddle before the 2nd round district game against SMCC. It was an emotional game for many as they saw their season and for some, time playing at BHS, come to an end.

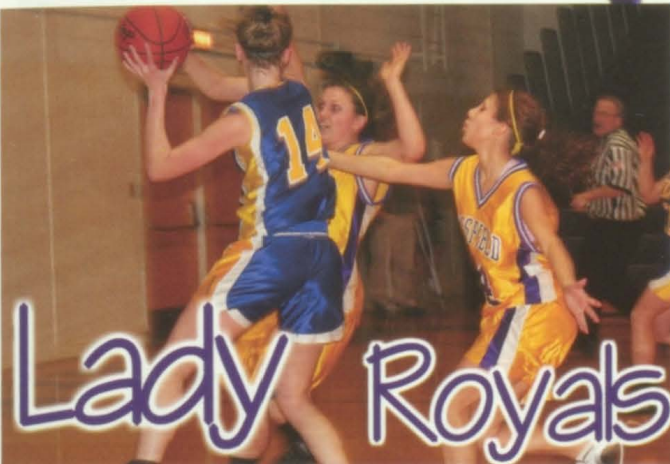

Junior Jamie Friess wrestles for a ball against Sand Creek as teammate Megan Knierim, looks on. The girls lost to the State-Semi-Finalist Aggies by five points.

Senior, and co-captain Renee Cantrell dribbles up the court during a home game against Madison. The girls won another impressive game, beating the Trojans.

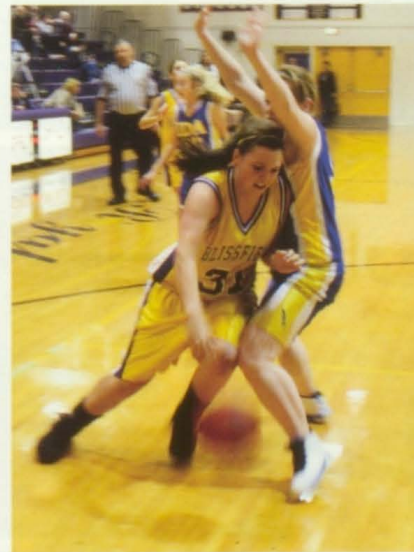

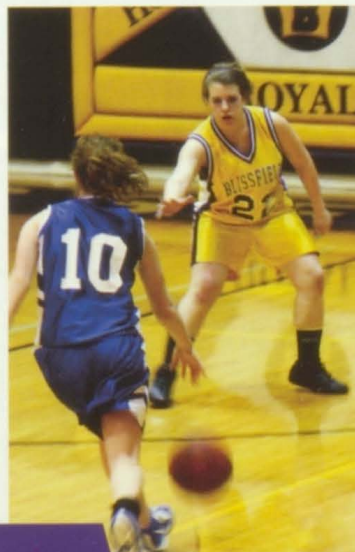

"In union there is strength."

The Junior Varsity girls had a winning season as well, ending their season with a 12-6 record. The team was made up of all freshmen, yet they handled teams with sophomores & juniors easily. Left: Megan Sheldon and Rose Robidoux play defense as an Ida rival tries to pass the ball. Rose was recognized for her aggression throughout the year. Right: Kelsey Tomasek waits for her teammates to get open as Dundee defenders guard her.

First to the right: Jose Witt makes eye contact with a teammate to pass the ball at Dundee. Jose came into the game as not only a talented guard, but could shoot the three very well, too. Next to the right, Megan Sheldon goes hard in the paint as an Ida defender tries to guard her. Sheldon was a tough person to guard down low, with quick feet, and a strong body. At Very Top: Claire Denecker, Sara Goetz, Brittany Essen, and Kelsie Abbott dribble the ball with intensity. Claire was an all-around skilled player with the ability to dribble, shoot, and rebound. Sara was known for her quickness and ability to guard other ball handlers outside. Brittany could handle the ball, and also defend anyone she came in contact with. Kelsie Abbott had a sweet stroke from outside, and could handle the ball as well.

Competitive Cheer

It was a very successful season for this team. They made huge improvements from years past, and never stopped moving forward. Practices were changed to every morning at 6 am before school all winter. As much as they dreaded waking up, the girls' hard work was well worth it. They were able to add back handsprings into round two, which helped them place higher in tough competitions. This team bonded very well, and the annual Christmas sleep-over was, yet again, a hit! During the entire season, the girls had one goal: to make it to regionals. They made some tough changes in their rounds, constantly increasing their difficulty and execution scores. In the end, they saw success, winning the Leslie invitational, and finally qualifying for the regional meet. There was a lot to be cheered about this season, and a lot of respect for the sport was rightfully returned. This team of ladies made everyone supporting them very proud.

Destination: Regionals 2011

For the first time since 1998, the competitive cheer team made it out of the district round placing fourth, which qualified them for the regional meet. The girls worked all season long with that goal in mind, and never gave up on it. They made it happen.

Right: Seniors Lauren Yates and Jennifer Sell celebrate after hearing the results at districts. Their season wasn't ending yet, all the hard work paid off!

Below: Coach Amber wrote the letters "LITM" on the girls' wrists to remind them to live in the moment, do their absolute best and enjoy themselves at the final meet of the season, Regionals!

The 2011 Baseball team has proved excellence once again, ending 7-1 in the league, beating everyone but Hudson in a last minute winning play. The Royals were inexperienced coming into the season, but the young team matured quickly. In the Royal's opening tournament, they went 2-1, losing only to Bedford 2-0, ranked number two in division one.

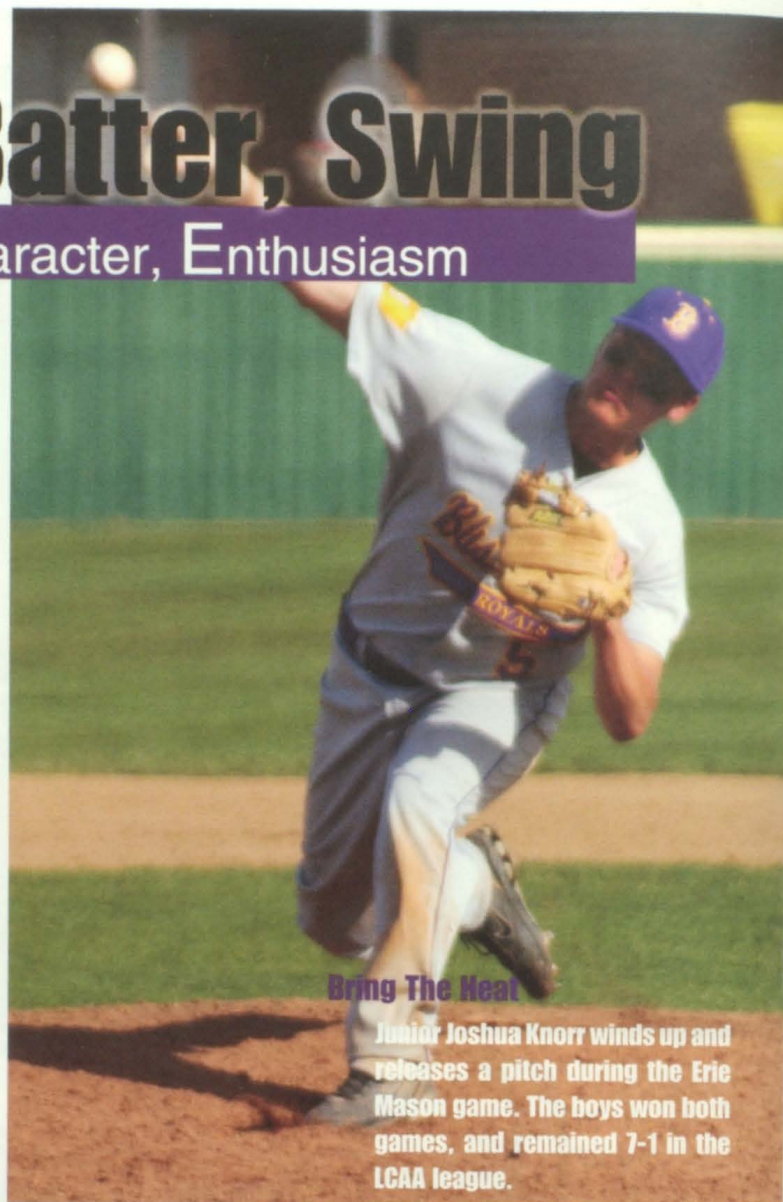

"Adversity doesn't build character, it reveals it."

Coach Dusty Willson

There was some ups and downs throughout the season. However, the Royals did not falter. The boys had key players step up at the opportune times. With injuries plaguing the team, the Royals moral would not be shaken. New players constantly stepped up and filled the roles of the injured players. While rolling into districts and regionals, the baseball team thrilled Coach Larry Tuttle for yet another year of his career.

Tyler Watters, 24

Bring The Heat

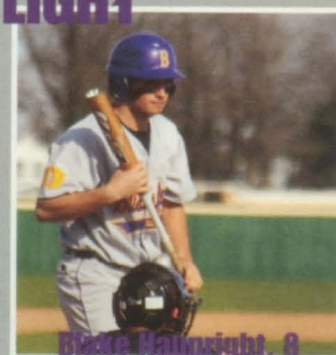

Junior Joshua Knorr winds up and releases a pitch during the Erie Mason game. The boys won both games, and remained 7-1 in the LCAA league.

Leadership SPOTLIGHT

Eric Schmidt, 6

Senior Eric Schmidt throws a pitch against Onsted. Schmidt is continuing his baseball career playing at Adrian College. He has been on Varsity for four years and has shown excellent leadership in being a captain this year. With awards of MVP, and all state for two years, his baseball career is well known.

Blake Haupright, 8

Junior Blake Haupright awaits a pitch while batting. Blake brings a lot of speed and agility to the team. According to captain Eric Schmidt: "Blake has the ability to lay down very good bunts, and is awesome in the outfield. He can run down any ball." Blake will be a very good leader next year, and will be a great asset to the team.

1. SWING Freshman Connor Vandecave swings at a pitch and connects for a bomber hit to center field. 2. THROW Skyler Miller winds up and aims to throw out a offender. 3. FIELD Jacob Ford awaits to field the ball while in the homejersey. 4. CELEBRATE The JV baseball team celebrates their first place win at the blah blah blah tournament. 5. WAIT Tim Seifert awaits to field the ball on the home field against Erie Mason.

"Players play,

This softball season, the team's goal was to win league again and to make it out of districts. The Royals were very excited for this season with seven graduating seniors and a handful of talented under classmen. This was the year to make things happen. Although the season started off a little rocky, things slowly began to fall in to place. As the team began working together and figuring out their problems, spectators could start seeing a big difference in the way the games were being played. The team finished with a season of 20-14 unfortunately not winning league, but did end up taking the District title with them instead. At Regionals, the girls continued to surprise everyone by clenching that title as well! This was the first time in Blissfield History that the Varsity Softball team won Regionals. What a big accomplishment for the team! Quarterfinals were then played against Clinton at Adrian College where the road ended sadly for the girls. The team was upset with the loss, but had to look at the positive aspect and see how far they came compared to past years. "We gave it our best shot and everyone played together. We told each other we were going to make it this far, and we did!" Stated Senior Jennifer Sell.

WOMEN'S

"The greatest feeling in the world is when you're out on the soccer field, and you know that your team is going to succeed because you look around and see your 10 best friends playing beside you."

Blissfield Women's Soccer program is more than just the fun of playing the game. It's about developing not only the team's performance, but also the relationships they hold with their teammates. They spend weeks together, getting yelled at for burping, punished for complaining about the weather, and repeating drills over and over. Whether Coach is proud or frustrated with their performances, they use their mistakes to improve in future games. They're considered a team on and off of the field, because these games and practices bring them together; they create a bond making them a family.

Seniors: Regardless of how much they complain, they're still the key element in keeping the team motivated to play their best.

Tradition: Every team seems to have their own traditions, from team dinners to painting the rock. Soccer seems to stray from their previous traditions, because instead of losing, they win.

Kenzy Speiser Captain

- Favorite memory: Quoting Despicable Me at every practice.
- Got promoted from honorary-captain to real captain.
- Most dependable. The team knows she'll get things done when they're asked of her.

- Favorite memory: going out to eat after games.
- You can hear the power she puts into her kicks. grunt
- Known for: sacrificing her body to get the ball.

Ariel Emery 4th-year

- Favorite Quote: "Knocked over."
- Always tries to play harder and stronger than the game before.
- Always the one in the back yelling "we can do this guys, push yourselves!"

Emily Scholl 4th-year

Katie Siebarth 4th-year

- Favorite memory: the bus ride including emily's microphone.
- The team can always count on her to have their backs.
- Her intensity on the field is the equivalent of her excitable personality off the field.

Take it up the field: (Pictured below) The 'dream-team' Emily Loar and Corinne Domschot. Emily Loar was the leading scorer of the team her freshman and sophomore years. Corinne led the team in assists her freshman and sophomore years as well. These two personify the idea of being so connected that they can get the ball to each other no matter what the play.

Win: We got lucky.
Tie: We should have won.
Loss: It was the refs.

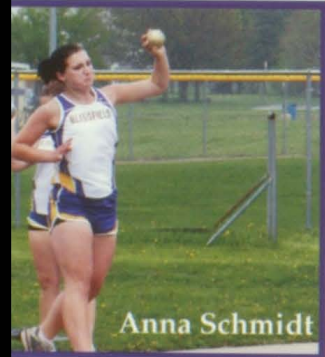

Even when the team wins, Coach pushes them to do better in the next game. Sometimes they don't understand his tactics, but Moreno wasn't voted Coach of the Year twice for nothing.

Team Huddle: They don't play the game for themselves, they play the game for each other. 71

Left Turns Only

Track and Field has always been a strong sport at Blissfield. The three T's: Talent, Tradition and Training are held highly. The womens team welcomed a lot of new members with lots of talent this season. The younger athletes earned their spot in relays and open events everyday during training. Because of that training, tradition stands, the team was very competitive in both the running and field events. On the mens side, they struggled with low team numbers, but consistantly improved, and defeated Hudson at the LCAA meet.

Determination is what it takes to make it big in this sport.

Team:

Even though Golf is more of an independent sport, the team never failed to help one another improve their game and scores.

SENIORS

The seniors on the team are confronted with the job of helping the underclassmen and teaching them how to play better and hone their skills. Cameron Raich and Mitchell Winkelman quickly took up the responsibility and led the team to a great season of golf.

"Let the Choir Sing!"

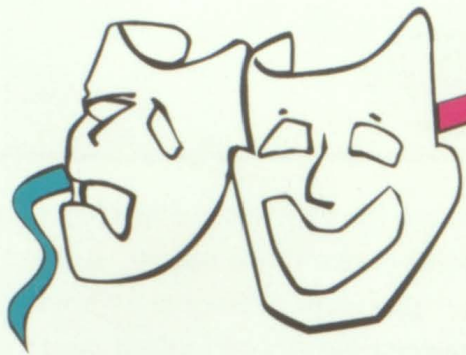

This year the Blissfield Choir performed at both the Christmas Concert for the Arts, and the Blissfield Fine Arts Show. The songs that the choir performed were a combination and solos, duets and trios. This year was also the first year of Mrs. Linn's career at Blissfield High School that boys have been an active part of the class. The choir also attended the Lenawee Fine Arts Festival, and participates actively. Members of the Choir consisted of: Seniors: Ariel Emery, Rachel Shields, Courtney Bausman, Olivia Herrera, Katie Kimmelman, Katie Siebarth, Chelsea Smith, Cameron Martinez, and Patrick Harrigan. Juniors: Alexa Walczack, Nicole Jahlas, Chelsea Brown, and Taylor Wendel. Sophomores: Jessica Borman, Brooke Vanpelt, and Taylor Campbell. Freshman: Josie Witt, Emily Moellenberndt, Kelsie McEwen, and Samuel Nelson.

Above: The Choir begins to sing the finale to the Blissfield Fine Arts Festival, they chose to feature the medley of songs from the band, Journey. These included, "Faithfully", "Anyway You Want It", and "Don't Stop Believing".

The Choir practices their medley of songs for the Christmas Concert for the Arts, and the Fine Arts Festival.

Thespian Society

In order to be a Thespian, you must earn a certain number of points. Points are earned by being in performances, watching shows, participating back stage, writing and publishing scripts, and attending festivals.

The Blissfield chapter of the International Thespian Society is Troupe #6353. Theatre used to be very popular back in the day, and only in the recent years has it climbed back up to its former status. Thanks to the newly formed Drama Club, the Thespian Society has many more members and much deserved attention. However, the Thespian Society isn't just people putting on a performance. This year they are hosting fund-raising events for local or worldwide charities while also trying to raise enough money to purchase much-needed equipment and additional supplies for the theatre department.

The Blissfield Concert band had a great year, from their positive feedback following their school Collage Concert to an extremely successful trip to New York! The band took a trip to New York City over spring break and even through all of the enjoyment they had in their free time they got more accomplished than they could have ever hoped for. Blissfield High School's concert band got exceptionally high honors as they placed number one in their division and following that, received number one overall.

This year FFA has gone to the FFA State Convention, given lessons at the elementary, and participated in many leadership contests. They are also looking forward to having Ag. day for the children at the elementary school. For lessons at the elementary, they help to teach the younger children about farming and agriculture.

At competitions, the students must memorize facts about agriculture and go to compete against others in the area.

At the leadership contests, participants go to an area of their expertise and spend a day working with that specified area.

Link Crew

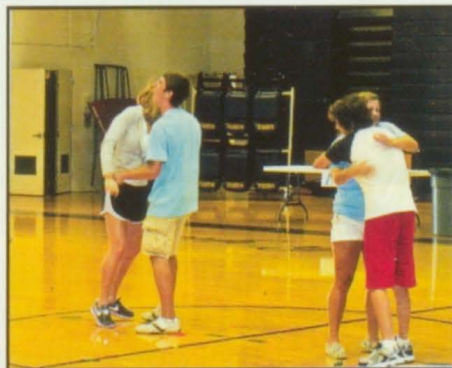

"The only real training for leadership is leadership"
- Antony Jay

Blissfield Link Crew is a year-long mentoring program geared toward acclimating freshmen students into a high school setting. Link Crew Leaders are trained to meet the needs of their individual crews of eight or more freshmen students. A high level of commitment is required to be a Link Leader as they are expected to attend freshmen orientation, monthly leader meetings, and other interactive events involving the freshmen students.

During VIP once a month, link crews met for activities in the gymnasium. In this game they had to concentrate on which hand was theirs!

At orientation, the balloon pop relay was a hit! Link leaders hugged freshmen, popping balloons between their bodies.

Academic follow-ups were led by Link Leaders periodically, to check up on the freshmen's studies.

Rotary is a service-based organization that gives local businessmen and women opportunities to give back to their community. Rotary is also about tradition and fellowship. Rotarians are creative, goal-oriented, ambitious leaders that are committed to making a difference in the world around them. Eight seniors were chosen to serve as Junior Rotarians for the duration of this school year in order to learn more about Rotary and how they can get involved with the organization. Junior Rotarians attend weekly lunch meetings with the Rotary Club and assist with several fundraising/community events put on by the club, such as the annual Rotary auction.

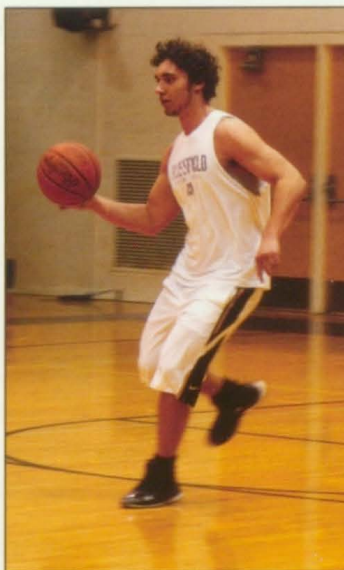

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society is not just something that Blissfield does. It is a Nationally accredited society based on service, scholarship, leadership, and character. You must maintain a certain GPA, attend all the meetings, and participate in the service projects.

This project raised $760 that was donated to the Lenawee Homeless Education Foundation

Student Vs. Staff B-Ball Game

Raising more than $3,000 NHS and Blissfield High School donated $1,500 to the Backpack Buddy Program, $1,000 to Joshua Fowler and his family, and $500 to Rancho Ebenezer to benefit an orphanage in Honduras

Blood Drive

Through NHS, Blissfield High School, and the efforts of the Red Cross, 65 units of blood were collected to donate.

Resolved: The United States federal government should substantially reduce its military and/or police presence in one or more of the following: South Korea, Japan, Afghanistan, Kuwait, Iraq, Turkey.

The 2010 debate season was very successful for Blissfield. Everyone in the debate class had to participate in at least one scrimmage, and an in-school debate tournament decided who would get to go to the county tournament. Unfortunately, Blissfield did not get to debate in the final round, although they did very well. From the scrimmages there were ribbons and plaques awarded to the top speakers of the novice and varsity teams.

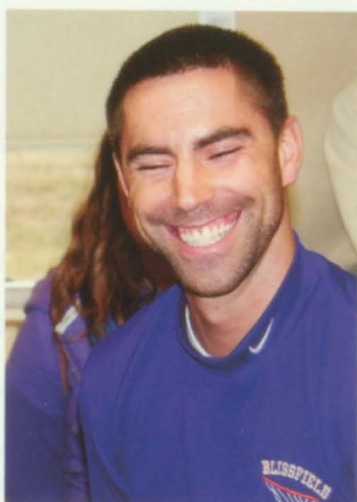

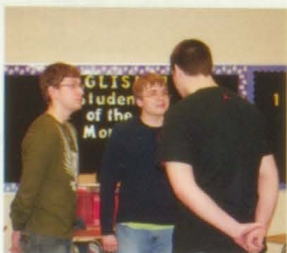

Plaque winners (Six in the county, for speaker points):

Cindy Geer (1st)

Katie Kimmelman (3rd)

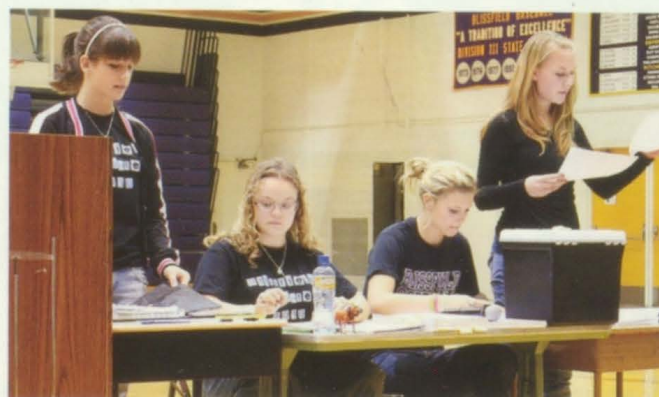

Dani Davis (4th)

Jimmy Stump (5th)

Bottom: Jimmy Stump, James Hart, and Tim Seifert have an intimate stare-down to practice being focused.

Emily Wolfe and Teacia Sheldon (affirmative), and Emily Scholl and Morgan MacBeth (negative) debated the final round of the in-school tournament in the gym. The affirmative team won with a resolved of: The United States federal government should substantially reduce its military presence in Iraq.

Tournament winners, April 29:

-Mallory Flinn:

Dramatic Interp (1st, 3rd year in a row)

-Emily Wolfe: Humorous Interp (1st), Informative (2nd)

-Katie Kimmelman: Informative (3rd)

-Celia Coopshaw:

2011

In Publications, supervised by Mr. Sullivan, the class works quickly and efficiently to create the yearbook for the students of Blissfield High School. This year the challenge was overcoming the stresses of Tetris. The pictures shown are a few ways that this class procrastinated this yearbook throughout the year.

Gettin' The Digits

For students, four years of math are needed in order to graduate. There are various classes to choose from such as Pre-Algebra, Algebra, Geometry, Algebra 2, Pre-Calc, Calculus, Financial Management, and Accounting. In these classes, students learn the different ways to do math, and prepare for their college education.

Work | 1. Junior Alexa Walczak looks through her notebook and works hard. 2. Mrs. Judkins teaches her class about Geometry. 3. Freshman Devon Bostick gets help from classmate Chelsea Rohlan on her Algebra homework. 4. Freshman Emily Kasefang does her homework in V.I.P. 5. Freshman Kyle Sell reads a piece of poetry in front of his class during their Shakespeare unit.

Senior Eric Schmidt thinks hard about the class discussion in English 12.

English: Noun. Writings in which expression and form, in connection with ideas of permanent and universal interest, are characteristic or essential features, as poetry, novels, history, biography, and essays.

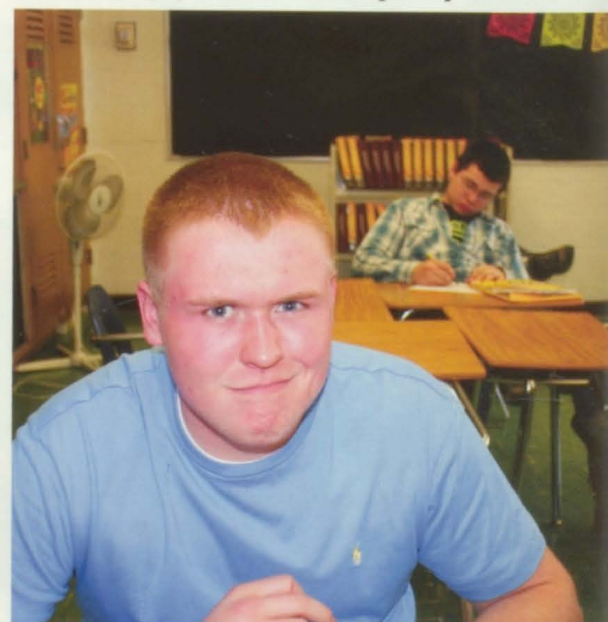

As a requirement for graduation, each class has to take four years of English classes. These include English 9, 10, 11, 12, Public Speaking, Writing About Film, Writer's Workshop, Mythology, and AP English. Many students decide to take two of these, along with their required English class. Throughout the year, they learn the proper techniques for writing essays and speeches; read various books, writings, and poems; watch plays and films, and present lots of different material. English is essential to high school, not only because its required, but it gives students many traits they will need when they go off to college, like how to write a college persuasive paper. Accompanied by Mr. Jones, Mrs. Yopez, Mr. Weston, and Mrs. Breitner, students do just that.

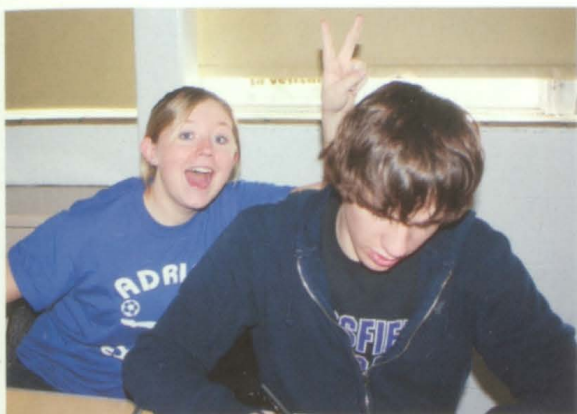

Junior Laura Goetz types her paper during English 11. Below, senior Mallory Flinn makes strawberry shortcakes for her demonstrative speech in public speaking.

Below, senior Bryce Denecker makes a face about what's going on in English 12, while Daniel Rumler concentrates on writing a paper to exceed Ms. Yopez' expectations.

Above, sophomore Kelsey Suiter gets her English on while proofreading a friend's paper in Mrs. Yepez' English 10 class. Below left, senior Katie Kimmelman writes while deep in thought about her paper. Below middle, freshman Clare Denecker follows along to the poem Mr. Pooley is reading. Below right, sophomore Jessica Borrmann writes down in her planner a due date that Mr. Jones assigned.

Many students carry planners in their pile of papers, books, and pencils. This is so they can keep their due dates, projects, and schedules in line. Left, sophomore Miranda Strack wips out her planner and ponders what she has to write down.

Things you learn (or are supposed to learn) in English

1. How to read Shakespeare

Thee, thou, shan't, haste, art, ere, hither, thy, whence. "Romeo, oh Romeo. Wherefore art thou Romeo?" English please?

2. How to write a thesis statement

Be detailed, but not too detailed. Don't make it a run-on sentence, but provide a few examples and mention everything you'll be talking about; yeah, okay.

3. How to use punctuation

Periods, commas, semicolons, colons, question marks, exclamation points, dashes, slashes, etc. etc. etc. Unfortunately, it'll never be correct.

4. How to speak in public

Yet the urge to say "umm", fidget, ruffle papers, and the comfort of reading off of an outline never goes away.

5. What a genre is

Rock, punk, hip-hop, country. Horror, noir, westerns, comedy. Adventure, biography, autobiography. But of course, "genre" is a French word.

Spanish is more than just memorizing words and reciting them for tests and quizzes. In Spanish class, the students learn how to interact with each other using new phrases, and learning how to apply them in their everyday lives. Beginning in Spanish 1 with Mrs. Walters the students use physical actions to remember what certain phrases mean.

As a class, they celebrate special Spanish holidays such as Día de los Muertos (Day of the Dead), and Cinco de Mayo. They do class projects including new vocabulary that they learned, and do projects related to what they're learning about.

Let's Get Physical

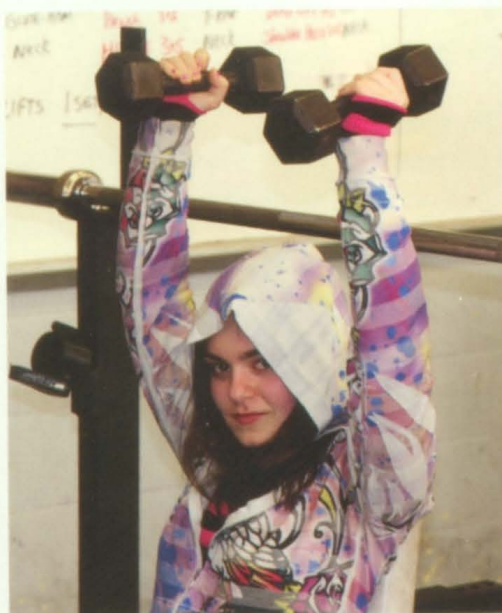

For some, it's mandatory, for others, it's by choice. Physical education classes of Lifetime and Royal Fitness have many participants, whether it's Freshmen needing their one year of gym for graduation credit, or an upperclassmen, just wanting to stay in shape. Students endure various activities that push their physical stamina, and give them cardiovascular work for the day. Throughout the week, they may be found working out in the weight room, running a mile on the track, or playing a game of dodgeball in the gym. No matter what their reason for being in the class, many participate in the activity, always with a smile on their face.

HOMECOMING

FLOATS

Every year during the week of Homecoming, each grade competes in building a float to pull in the parade. This year... The Freshmen float's theme was "FE FI FO FUM." The Sophomore's float's theme was "Royals, Forever After...." And the Junior class had the theme of "Chomp the Eagles."

The Class of 2011 was known to excel when it came to Homecoming spirit week, and this year was no exception. Along with winning float building they also won the whole Homecoming week competition in general. Pictured below is their award-winning float with the theme "Fire up, Royals!" and Jennifer Sell and Cameron Raich smiling at the crowd as they proudly ride through the parade.

DRACULA

Written by Stephen Hetchner, adapted from Bram Stoker's Original Tale of Terror

Lucy Wenstrom (Claire DuMoulin) is taken under Count Dracula's (Cameron Martinez) trance. She dances with him seductively before he bites her neck to suck her blood.

Mina Harker (Elizabeth Slomski) tells Dr. Van Helsing (Chris Dashner) about the strange behaviour of her best friend, Lucy Wenstrom (Claire DuMoulin).

Gretchen (Mallory Flinn), a servant girl in Count Dracula's castle, leads Jonathan Harker (Jimmy Stump) down to the dungeon to find Dracula's coffin.

Count Dracula (Cameron Martinez) threatens Jonathan Harker (Jimmy Stump) after he gets a sight of Jonathan's blood from a small shaving accident.

Mrs. Wenstrom (Dani Davis), taken under the trance of Count Dracula, makes her way into her daughter's (Claire DuMoulin) room to remove the garlic being used to keep the Count away.

Right: Lucy Wenstrom (Claire DuMoulin) tosses her rosary onto Mrs. Wenstrom's (Dani Davis) dead body on her way to her "master".

Below: Dr. Van Helsing (Chris Dashner) and Jonathan Harker (Jimmy Stump) untie Mina Harker (Elizabeth Slomski) from a cross after Dracula was killed.

Above: Dr. Van Helsing (Chris Dashner) finds Mrs. Wenstrom's (Dani Davis) body the morning after Dracula attacked.

Middle: Dr. Van Helsing (Chris Dashner) shoves a cross into the ground to later tie Mina (Elizabeth Slomski) to.

What's your favorite thing about Coming Home Week?

Every year, Coming home week is all about spirit and fun. This year, spirit week was cut short because of a harsh winter storm. However, the students still worked hard and had a good time. The theme was "music genres". On Friday, boys from each grade participated in the Iron Man volleyball game. Although the Juniors put up a good fight, the Senior class was victorious. After school, students from each class worked viciously to finish their class wagons and decorate their assigned hallways before heading to the basketball game. The boys took on the Eagles from Erie Mason. During halftime, wagons from each class were pulled across the gym, along with each king and queen candidate from the Senior class.

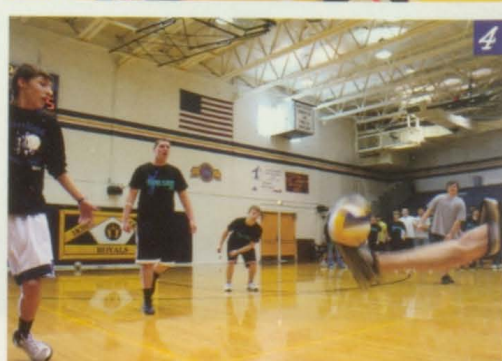

Above, Mitchell Winkleman rides in his wagon titled "The Royals have risen!" This was one of the more popular of the candidate's wagons, displaying his gospel music genre.

1- Junior Zach Schaffer goes up to tip Senior rival Luke Stange's hit.

2- The Senior's wagon won first place this year, with their genre being rock. They entitled their wagon, "T.N.T Watch the Royals explode!". The Sophomores earned the second seat with "We fly higher than the Eagles." The Juniors placed third with "Stompin' the Eagles", while the Freshmen came in last with their Michael Jackson inspired wagon.

3- Junior Steven Mattek pedals his way across the floor in his mini John Deer, pulling their third place wagon.

4- The Sophomore boys watch in awe as one member of their team goes after the ball in a stylish way.

Below, the Seniors hold up four fingers for their perfect sweep of the annual Iron Man volleyball game. They were crowned champions all four years.

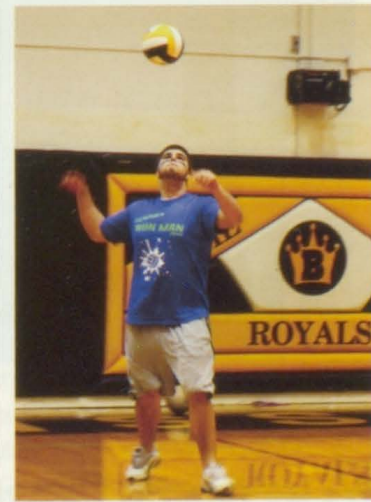

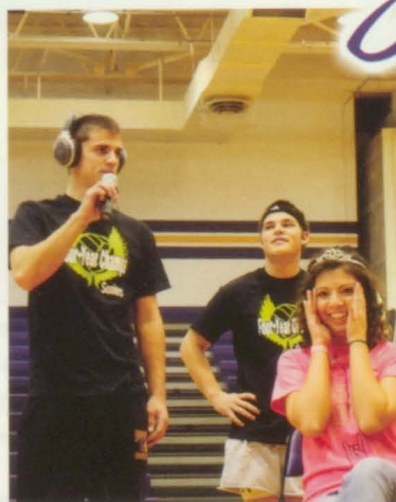

Tell the world I'm

Along with spirit week, eight boys and girls from the Senior class get nominated to run for Coming home king and queen. This year the candidates were Chelsea Bateson, Caitlyn Meszaros, Emily Scholl, Melissa Wiles, Jimmy Stump, Ean Sablich, Jordan Bateson, and Mitchell Winkleman. Throughout the week these nominees pledge why the student body should vote for them. "Nothin' beats seein' a fancy Caitlyn and Ean!" was one of the many quotes from posters hung up around the school. Or, candidates take a sweeter approach to bribe students, like Melissa Wiles did, handing out suckers throughout the day. Left, candidate Jimmy Stump raises the roof while riding in his Stump-mobile. Right, crowned Coming Home King and Queen of 2011: Caitlyn Meszaros and Ean Sablich pose for a picture.

Roger (Zach Schaffer) gets de-pantsed by the other greasers and shows off his smiling boxers.

Sonny (Jimmy Stump) imitates Danny trying out for the track team.

Marty and Vince Fontaine (Lizzy Slomski and Jacob Foley) make-out in the background before the hand-jive contest.

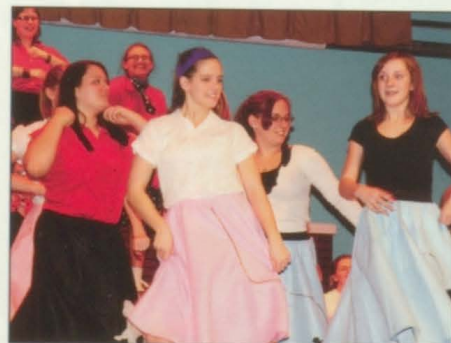

Kenickie (Charlie Southward) does the moonwalk during the big hand-jive contest.

Sandy (Olivia Miller) cries while singing "Raining on Prom Night" because she is too sick to go to the dance.

Rizzo (Mallory Flinn) smokes (a fake cigarette!) while at a slumber party.

"We go together like ramma lamma lamma, ka dinga da dinga dong. Together forever like shoo bop, shoo wadda wadda yippity boom da boom. Chang, chang, changitty chang shoo bop. That's the way it should be, wa oooh yeah!"

Escape To Paradise

Dance Dance: Above, students partake in the annual Cotton Eyed Joe dance at the Junior-Senior prom. This was one of the many songs that was played in which many participants danced to.

Prom is a time where students rent tuxes, buy dresses, rent limos, and dance all night. Prom is more formal than homecoming. This year, the Junior-Senior Prom was held at the Dundee Mill in Dundee, Mi. There was a great turn-out of many students, everyone dressed up in their dresses and tuxes. The theme for prom was "Escape to Paradise". The hall was decorated in palm trees, candles, and hula girls. Everyone was even treated with their own lei! The dance was held from 8:00-11:00, due to a technical difficulty of the speakers blowing with thirty minutes left of the dance. However, many students still had a magical evening, and danced the night away. Many Juniors and Seniors came, along with a handfull of Sophomores, a couple of Freshmen, and lots from other schools. At the very top of the page, Kyle Sell makes sure his pinky is out while he sips on some pop while taking a breather from breaking it down on the dance floor. Prom court this year included Dalton Goetz, Christina Ermakov, Ashley LaRoy, Taylor Kuhn, Jennifer Sell, Jonathon McEwan, Cindy Geer, and Curtis Hamman. Although it was a great court with a tough voting decision for many, Jennifer Sell and Jonathon McEwan were crowned prom King and Queen. It was a night to remember for all, and the last high school dance for some.

Prom

The theme of after prom this year was "A Royal Night Out With the Royals", following the British Royal Wedding of Prince William and Catherine Middleton, married on April 29th, 2011. Students had many activities to participate in. These included an open gym with basketballs and volleyballs, dodgeball tournament, Minute to Win It games, getting their picture drawn by a cartoonist, making their own crowns and masks, or betting chips at various poker and blackjack tables. Some even chose to sit in the cafeteria and eat pizza, chocolate covered strawberries, cupcakes, cookies, and fill up on Mountain Dew the whole night. It's basically a place where students can chill with each other without the parents being worried about them. Throughout the night, many prizes were raffled off. Very top, Caitlyn Meszaros shows off her sweet Adrian College hat that she won, and will be sporting next year. Top right, Clarissa DuMoulin gives a thumbs up for her tattoo being put on her back. Top left, Emily Wolfe and Morgan Macbeth show enthusiasm while getting their picture drawn by the cartoonist. Many seniors stay for the whole time, and this is because of the 'senior prizes' raffled off at the end of the night. They have their eyes on the prizes such as TVs, DVD players, and even a laptop! Sometimes, however, many students get stuck with a prize like a laundry basket, or towels. Danielle Rombach was the big winner this year, winning the laptop. Mackenzie Madsen also won big, winning a TV. Cassie Loar won a DVD player, and sadly, Caitlin Rohlan won a laundry basket.

Blissfield's Fine Arts Festival

A night of music, drama, and art!

Below: Brittany Essen belts her heart out to "Maybe This Time." She dedicated it to her father, which got the crowd cheering.

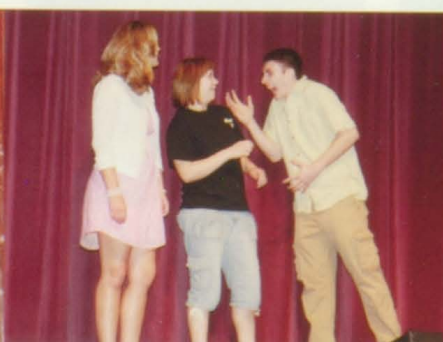

The Fine Arts Festival wasn't only acting and singing. The hallway was chuck full of paintings, clay projects, and drawings done by art students and just art hobbieists in the school. Mr. Stranges and Mrs. Linn were very proud to show off everything that their very talented students have learned to do, and have gotten very good at over the years.

Upper Left: Austin Holloway sings "Faithfully" by Journey with the rest of the choir. Upper Right: Mallory Flinn performs a dramatic monologue called "Ice Cream for Dinner" which she performed at numerous Forensic competitions, placing first every time.

Courtney Bausman sings "Strong Enough" and plays her guitar.

Elizabeth Slomski, Katie White, and Chris Dashner performed improv between scenes.

Katie Siebarth and Taylor Wendel sing "Temporary Home" in the Inspirational Selections.

Niccy Jahlas sings "Don't Rain on my Parade" from the Off-Broadway Selections.

Blissfield Choir at thier finest.

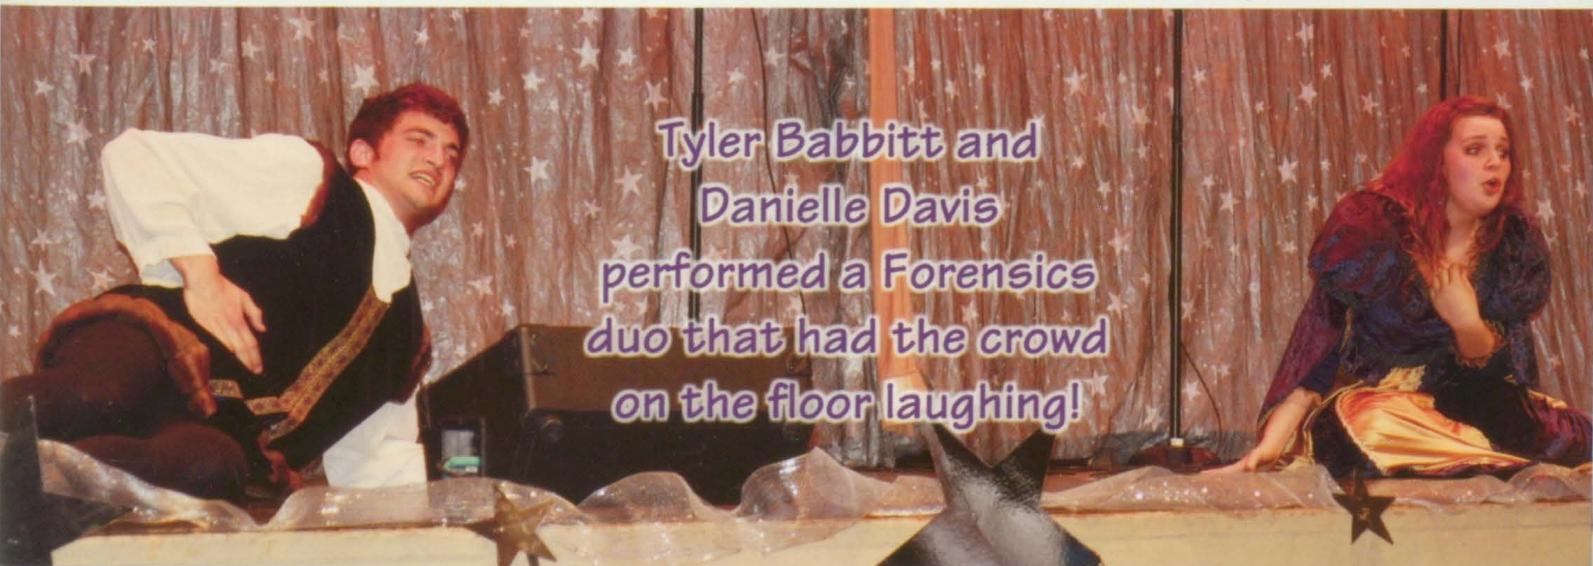

Tyler Babbitt and Charlie Southward were the announcers for the evening.

Mrs. Linn gives out the choir awards.

Elizabeth Slomski and Olivia Miller the Off-Broadway Selection "Sisters."

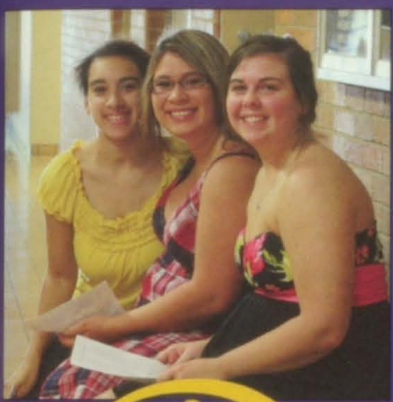

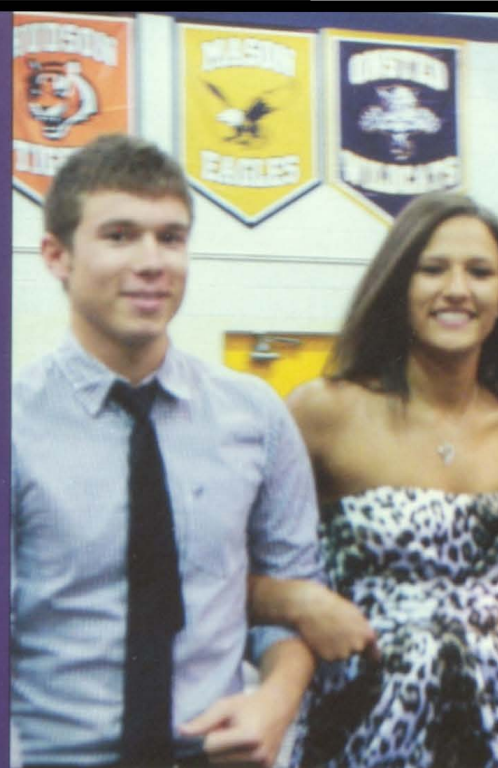

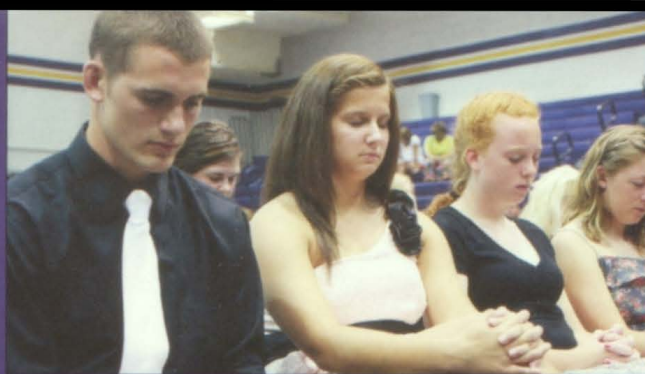

Tyler Babbitt and Danielle Davis performed a Forensics duo that had the crowd on the floor laughing!

Baccalaureate is the event that everyone in Blissfield knows comes before graduation, but no one knows exactly how to describe what it is. Ean Sablich had the opening speech, and explained the night pretty well. He said it was "a time for reflection; remembering what all the class has been through". The school isn't technically involved, and no one from the school administration speaks. It's student-lead and the class invites a guest speaker. This year, the speaker was Brent Bittenbender, pastor of student ministry at Ogden Church. He gave advice to the class, and commended them on their achievements. Also speaking was Emily Wolfe, who presented the opening prayer, Dalton Goetz, who did a reading from the book of Ecclesiastes, and Melissa Wiles, who presented the closing prayer. Mrs. Linn directed the choir in singing "Bridge Over Troubled Water", with a solo by class member Courtney Bausman. Baccalaureate isn't a long event, but it's a nice refresher from the stresses of school. It allows the students to give thanks and ask for help as they grow older. One doesn't have to be religious to go to Baccalaureate, many people go just because it's one of the last things that they will do with the people they've been with since kindergarten. The class of 2011 voted on walking in like they would for graduation, because practice makes perfect. Although some members are not religious, they all bowed their heads for the prayers, and came together a final time. The class voted against caps and gowns for this night because they felt it was special for the following night. Instead, they just got to get all dressed up and take pictures with each other. Baccalaureate is a time for final class bonding, and binding friendships that had been growing the whole year, four years, or maybe even 13 years. It is one of the last times to be sure a good impression is left on classmates and their parents. It's a time for one to decide what they will do with themselves, and what kind of person they want to be, as Mr. Bittenbender said. Overall, baccalaureate was a time for the class to spend a little extra time together.

Graduation strong

Graduation 2011 was a miraculous one hour long. Though with only 87 students in the graduating class, any longer would have been rather redundant. On the girl's side, the night had an interesting, but rather unsurprising beginning: the music started and they weren't ready to go yet. It worked out alright though, because this class can always pull off whatever is handed to them. Awkward moments can't stall Blissfield's class of 2011, because they know how to shake it off, laugh, and keep going. The class voted on purple caps and gowns for the girls, and black for the boys. The original flower picked was an orchid, but that was changed to a cala lilly, because orchids break easily. Freshman English and public speaking teacher, and basketball and track coach, Mr. Justin Pooley was chosen as the guest speaker, and was introduced by the class treasurer, Celia Coopshaw. He brought back memories from his first year in Blissfield, when he learned a thing or two about the kids in this class. He went on to mention an "awkward gift" given to him their sophomore year. Other speakers included Zoe Brennan, who made the welcoming speech, and Cierra Sell, who did the closing speech (during which, no tears were allowed to be shed). Music included the usual "Pomp and Circumstance", performed by the band, "Disney at the Movies", also performed by the band, "Beautiful Day", by U2 performed by senior class member Austin Holloway, and "Graduation Strong", a song written and performed by class member Luke Stange. Before the class knew it, Mr. Johnson was using the power invested in him to proclaim the class of 2011 official graduates of Blissfield High School. After 13 years together, it was a bittersweet moment. Tears were shed, but that was after the moment of euphoria when their hats magically "fell" off of their heads. It was a long and challenging road, but this class made it through everything, and are finally off to bigger and better things. One thing is for certain, though: the class of 2011 left an impression on themselves and the school itself.

Left: Luke Stange plays the song he wrote specially for his graduation. This song was titled "Graduation Strong" and brought back some fond memories of the class of 2011's time together over the years. He mentioned the famous and much loved Bosco Pizza days. Mr. Johnson had a moment of fame when Luke fondly recalled the principal's daily smile. The whole gymnasium had a good laugh when Mrs. Denkins was mentioned; the class had to have tears, though, when Luke kindly asked them not to forget him, because he would always remember them.
