

The Monsters of Asfidel

One day a scientist who studied diamonds was studying a black diamond. When suddenly, he heard a voice in his head and it said, "do as you're told and I will reward you." He suddenly became hypnotized. And pieces of a bridge were falling from the sky. Then he suddenly felt the urge to put them together, so he did. Then he noticed strange markings on them. As he finished the bridge the strange markings began to glow green. The middle of the bridge blasted with a white light and then the monsters emerged.

"We are the monsters of Asfidel. You shall die muah ha ha ha ha!" Then out came a monster with 16 eyes and seven tentacles. Then came a giant Blob monster with horns and a big giant eye. Another monster came out and it was just like a Cyclops except it was covered in fur and had six arms. Then came a whole army of skeletons dressed in armor with spears and lots of other weapons. There were at least a thousand of them. There were about 12,000 of every single Blob monster and Cyclops with six arms. And then came the worst part, this giant tornado monster named Agrovor that was the king of all the monsters came out!

Then some monsters started heading towards Tokyo. Others attacked New York City. More Attacked California and San Francisco. The US Army started to attack the monsters. Nothing worked. They tried gunfire, grenades, nuclear bombs and even hydrogen bombs. They had no effect. They used tanks and airplanes. They even tried to gas them. Still no use. After the Army was totally demolished there was a world wide warning to take shelter underground. It was horrible they were stuck under there for almost a week with no food, no furniture, no nothing. They were just sitting around playing Rock paper scissors.

One day a man who was a historian knew another man who was a Fortune teller. Both remembered that It was just a couple years ago when the fortune teller told a prophecy just like what is happening right now. The only way to stop the monsters was to find the key hidden in the cave of Lost Souls and put the key in the very top of the bridge. Then it will suck all the monsters back in the bridge and then the bridge will disappear.

So the historian went right to it and started packing up all his belongings and set off to the cave of Lost Souls also known as Devil's Hole in Death Valley. He took a plane there and then next thing you know he was sitting at the edge of Devil's Hole. Then he swam for hours with 12 oxygen tanks. So it was kind of easy and then he saw it. The key that could reset everything. It could change the world and he could live a happy life again. So he ripped it out of the stone Idol and swam back up to the surface. He swam as fast as he could, full of excitement because he was going to save the world. But as soon as he reached the surface he heard the voice just like that scientist.

The voice said, "don't do it or you shall die a deadly death."

He didn't listen to the voice. He ran to his plane and flew off to that bridge. He saw hundreds of guards but he pushed through. He found the keyhole and he pushed it in as hard as he could and then boom! The bridge exploded with light! All the monsters he could see all turned to gray dust. All of the dust got sucked into the portal and then came the tornado monster, Agravor. He was furious, he said "one day I will get revenge on you! I shall haunt you for the rest of your life!" and then the bridge exploded, then everything was silent.

The end
