July/August/September 2018, Volume 23, Issue 3

Message From Our Library Manager

I am a fortunate person. I have had many wonderful experiences in my life and I can now add the American Library Association's Annual Conference and the city of New Orleans to that list. To be honest, I am torn with my experience with the city and the conference, so I am glad I have been asked to write about it as I hope the writing provides clarity.

The conference itself is a wonder, a little city of librarians (approximately 20,000 attendees) moves into the Ernest N. Morial Convention Center, all three million square feet of it. The building is over a half mile long, three stories tall and the 5th largest convention center in the United States, as if I needed to be reminded I was not in Cottonwood anymore.

The opening session was an interview with former First Lady, Michelle Obama, by the Librarian of Congress, Carla Hayden. Michelle, of course, was there to help promote her new book, but what I felt like we got was a look inside a person who has led an extraordinary life, not just a political sway or a push for her book. She really dove into what it is like to be a woman, a black woman, a mother, a spouse and how she tries to balance it.

In all, I was able to attend 13 general sessions, an interview with Sally Field (also coming out with a memoir in the Fall), and a trip to the New Orleans Public Library. I had two, maybe two and a half, big takeaways from the conference. One, librarians are used to telling patrons and the public to come and use the library. The new way must be to encourage and allow the community to tell the library what it is they need (please look for our surveys as we attempt to achieve this). Two, the field is very intelligent/academic. My first, and only, impression of libraries has been of the public library, however, many librarians work in the university setting. Most of the sessions, even if about public libraries, are conducted by academic faculty or

LOOKING FOR A GOOD BOOK?

Find books that are just your style with reading recommendations from NoveList Plus.

Ask us how!

WWW.CTWPL.INFO/DATABASES.ASP

Have you ever finished a great book and wanted to find more just like it? Or wanted to help your child find just the right book to read? The Cottonwood Public Library offers NoveList Plus, a helpful resource to help readers match up with the books that are right for them.

The NoveList Plus database connects readers to their next book by making recommendations for what to read next. One of the most popular elements is read-alikes. This feature suggests titles that are 'just like' other titles. If you've just finished a great book, log into NoveList Plus and find great read-alikes. There are also read-alikes for authors and series. Consider NoveList Plus your one-stop guide to great reading. It contains lists of recommended reads and award-winning books. It covers both fiction and nonfiction titles for all ages from the youngest readers to adults. It also has extra content like reviews (both professional reviews and reader reviews), book discussion guides, curriculum guides, and other book-oriented articles. Book groups and teachers find these resources especially helpful.

Library usage is a critical component in literacy and educational success, and NoveList Plus provides valuable support. By identifying the right books for every reader, it helps younger readers achieve reading success. Parents, teachers, and students can search by age, reading level, grade and more. Audiobook recommendations are a recent addition to NoveList Plus. When you want to find the perfect listening experience – whether that means short, long, for the whole family, a specific narrator – this service will help you find a lot of suggestions. Sound clips are included so you can get a preview.

Ask about NoveList Plus on your next visit to the library. Or look for it on our website at academic librarians. My half takeaway is that I am glad I do not have the traditional Master's of Library and Information Science. It seems to me, as of now, that coming from a different background and having a unique perspective is to my advantage. After all, the number one skill librarians are looking for as they hire is emotional intelligence.

Now for the real fun, the city of New Orleans. Whatever it is you think New Orleans is, you are right. An amazing blend of Spanish, French, Creole, Slave and many other influences blended into one big party. Bourbon Street is a hot mess, and if that is your kind of thing, you will find nothing else like it. The French Quarter is immersed with an incredibly unique history filled in by the most amazing bar and restaurant scene.

The story of New Orleans is complicated. The post-Katrina era has not helped it to sort itself out. I get the feeling that to the folks who live there, being complicated is okay. Being complicated, diverse and full of character is why they love their city. The history, the charm and the city's love for living is why I love New Orleans.

Thank you to the Bookmarks - Friends of the Cottonwood Public Library for financing my exploration. Thank you to my wife for sharing the city of New Orleans with me and thank you to the library staff for helping me unpackage all of the new ideas I brought back with me.
