Fires Are Back!

The one perk of a cold winter is the chance to read a good book in front of a cozy fire. Beginning on Wednesday, December 4, our fireplace will be lit every Wednesday and Thursday until the end of March (or until warm weather returns, whichever comes first).

Library Tidbits: The Book Drop

Have you ever pulled up to our book drop and noticed a closed sign? Have you wondered why? The book drop is made of two parts - the outer shell has a wheeled cart inside. When you drop your materials into the metal slots, they fall down into the appropriate side of the cart. Three times each day, staff brings the cart inside the library to unload. Luckily, we have a second option. On the left side of the main entrance door, there's a small door that leads to an indoor book drop (pictured below). If the drive-through book drop is closed when you arrive, you can use the back-up drop.

There are a few things we would like you to know about the book drop...

It fills up fast! On holiday weekends, we assign a staff member to come in to empty the drop on Sunday or Monday. Even with that precaution, it can sometimes be too full. If you are having trouble getting an item in the door, please do not force it. When there are too many books, they act as a lock for the cart, making it impossible to remove it. When that happens, it takes multiple staff members and a lot of time to try to wiggle books out from the top in an effort to free it. It can cause items to fall behind the cart and get damaged and frequently causes injuries to staff.

Media, like DVDs and audiobooks, and books go into the two different slots for a reason. The bottom of the cart has springs so it sinks as more books are added, minimizing the distance each item has to fall. Still they all land in one big pile. If light things and heavy things went into the same compartment, the light things would inevitably get squished. That's why we ask that some delicate items not be put in the book drop at all.

We have one other favor to ask. If you are pulling into the book drop lane and a staff member is emptying the book drop, please don't pull around us. It's a safety hazard and makes us nervous. It only takes us a minute to get the cart in and out. Please wait until we clear the road before pulling through.

We appreciate your help in making the book drop as safe and convenient as it can be for patrons, staff, and the books!

December 2

Kennebunk Free Library and the Camden Conference present Bill Hall at KFL on Monday, December 2 at 6:00 p.m. to discuss Ukraine and the Survival of Democracy in Europe.

The outcome of Russia's invasion of Ukraine seems a bellwether for the survival of democracy in Europe. This talk will examine democracy's status and prospects in eastern/central Europe as it relates to Ukraine's future as an independent nation. A solidly democratic neighborhood for Ukraine would strengthen Ukraine's position in the fight and in the eventual peace talks – and perhaps restrain Moscow from further attempts to rebuild the Russian empire.

Bill was an intelligence officer for the US Air Force, serving on active duty from 1969 until 1999, much of that time overseas - in Asia, Europe, and the Middle East. He grew up in Virginia and received a bachelor's degree in politics from Princeton University and a master's degree in foreign affairs from the University of Virginia. Bill is on the board of the Camden Conference and a past president of the World Affairs Council of Main. He and his wife, Nancy, live on Peaks Island.

Poverty, By America Book Discussion - December 4

One in 18 people in the United States lives in deep poverty, including 6 million children. Why is poverty so persistent after decades of work by federal, state and local groups to eliminate it? We'll meet the first Wednesday of the month from 6:00-7:30 p.m. starting October 2, 2024 through February 8, 2025.

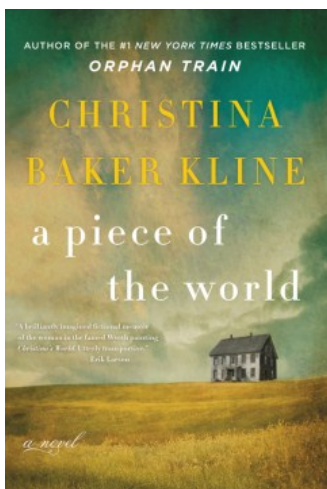

Desmond challenges preconceived notions of poverty. If we better understand the systems upholding poverty, we can begin to take actions to dismantle them. All are welcome! Sponsored by Many Towns, One Circle: Challenging Racism and Injustice and KFL. Registration is required.

Join us on Tuesday, December 10 at 1:00 p.m. to discuss A Piece of the World by Christina Baker Kline. The Fiction Book Discussion does not meet in November, and meets on the 2nd Tuesday of December instead.

"The world of the woman immortalized in Andrew Wyeth's haunting painting Christina's World is imagined in Kline's (Orphan Train) intriguing novel. The artist meets Christina Olson in 1939 when he summers near her home in Cushing, Maine, introduced by Betsy James, the young woman who knew the Olsons and would become Wyeth's wife. The story is told from Christina's point of view, from the moment she reflects on the painting; it then goes back and forth through her history, from her childhood through the time that Wyeth Painted at her family farm, using its environs and Christina and her brother as subjects. First encountering Christina as a middle-aged woman, Wyeth saw something in her that others did not. Their shared bond of physical infirmity (she had undiagnosed polio; he had a damaged right foot and bad hip) enables her to open up about her family and her difficult life, primarily as a shut-in, caring for her family, cooking, cleaning, sewing, and doing laundry—all without electricity and despite her debilitating disease. Hope of escape, when her teacher offers her the chance to take her place, was summarily quashed by her father. Her first and only romance with a summer visitor from Boston has an ignoble end when he marries someone in his social class. Through it all, the author's insightful, evocative prose brings Christina's singular perspective and indomitable spirit to life." — Publishers Weekly

RecipeTin eats dinner: 150 recipes for fast everyday meals by Nagi Maehashi.

When I saw this book returned in the book drop, I knew I had to order it. Great pictures, easy to follow directions and usually using ingredients already on hand. This was perfect to get me out of a dry spell of not knowing what to cook. I made the recipe for meatloaf (so different from my usual), chicken fingers (same), a stir fry sauce named Charlie, and a bacon and cabbage skillet dish. There are so many I want to try using a variety of proteins and tastes from other cultures that I purchased a copy. (book available from Minerva) Last month KFL started a cookbook group where participants bring in a cookbook and a dish from it to share. The theme was comfort food, I brought the yummy bacon cabbage dish. We had a great time. I ordered a cookbook because I loved the black bean burgers a participant brought. Join us for Cook & Share Cookbook Club Thursday, December 5 3:00—4:00 PM.

Ladder to the moon: a journey from the Congo to America by Georges Budagu Makoko ; edited by Vivien Kooper

This author presented the KFL October Camden Conference on Voting and Other Acts of Civil Engagement in Maine's Immigrant Community. He shared about his work with the immigrant population in Maine, the experiences that forced their migration, the hardships faced to get to America and the difficulties they face in their new country. Georges survived the Rwandan Genocide of the late 1990s. In his book he tells of the culture he was raised in and the shock and horror of events that forced him to leave his country. This short memoir gave me a better understanding of asylum seekers. (book available from Minerva)

The Kingdom, the Power, and the Glory by Tim Alberta

Are you curious about the rise of Christian Nationalism in America? Do you wonder how we got where we are today? This book takes you back to the roots of the movement. (Available from KFL as a book, Libby as an audio)
