ANIMAL POLICY

For the health, safety, and comfort of the patrons and staff of the Oxford Free Public Library, the presence of animals in the library building, or on library grounds, is restricted. To ensure compliance with the 1990 Federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), it is the policy of the Oxford Free Public Library to prohibit all animals from entering the library facility with the exception of service animals and animals featured in programs sponsored by the library.

Any animal entering the building, or on library grounds, must be controlled by a responsible adult at all times. Unattended animals, inside or outside the building, shall not be permitted; the town's Animal Control Officer may be called. The clean up and/or repair of damage caused by an animal, and any costs incurred for said clean up and/or repair, shall be the responsibility of the animal's owner.
