Adult Programs

Parenting Series with Stephanie Stilla-Petrie, MA, LMHC

Parenting During Puberty and Adolescence

Tuesday, June 6 at 6:30 pm

You have managed to live through teething, exploding diapers, temper tantrums, and complaints of boredom. You most certainly will survive raging hormones, testing limits, “dating” and middle school angst. This interactive workshop will help you to understand and develop strategies to enhance your parenting style when challenged with a child seeking answers about their changing bodies, first crush, and the increasing need for independence along with affectionate comfort from you!

Our Overscheduled Lives or How to Avoid Burnout

Tuesday, June 13 at 6:30 pm

When was the last time you and your children just sat and did nothing? Just talked or played a board game? Watched a favorite television show, cuddled on the couch, and ate popcorn? Many of us believe that parenting successfully means scheduling organized activities such as sports, scouts, and music or art lessons for our children. We leave no time for just throwing the ball around the yard or being creative with Legos or crayons. Or, just gazing at clouds or stars creating scenes imagined and not mandated. This workshop will explore the ramifications for our overscheduled children and ourselves. We will learn to breathe and smell the roses.

Parenting the Child with a disAbility

Tuesday, June 20 at 6:30 pm

No one expects a child with disAbilities when they are planning a family. No one can be truly ready for the experience or the feelings that may arise as they welcome their child into the world or when they suspect that their child may not be “right” or lagging behind other children in reaching developmental milestones. No one can begin to imagine the struggle that occurs when trying to find the appropriate services for their child. We will discuss the journey of the parent, siblings, and the child. We will also discuss the joy and impact a disAbled child has on the family and ourselves.

Library Trustees

The Library Trustees meet in Room 1-A on the 3rd floor of the Town Hall. All meetings are open to the public and are televised on Charter channel 191 and Verizon channel 31. Upcoming meetings are posted on the Library and Town of Sutton websites.

Parenting the College Student

Tuesday, July 18 at 6:30 pm

And, you thought your job was over! Parents, you are far from done. The transition from high school to college is a tumultuous time for both parent and teen. How do you reconcile the joy and sense of loss as you bring your college student to his/her new home on campus? How do you become the coach? When do you step in as a parent to rescue your disappointed, lonely, sad, or angry student? This workshop will focus on the changing relationship between the parent and their college student. We will discuss how parents can support their children in their journey as well as identify strategies for “letting go” and coping with the worry of having a college student.

Summer Concerts on the Common

Sponsored by UniBank

Jon McAuliffe

Saturday, July 15 at 6 pm

Jon’s music is a blend of gospel, folk/rock, classic R&B and rock & roll, and the occasional dip into pop.

Hungrytown Folk Duo

Saturday, August 12 at 6 pm

Vermont-based Rebecca Hall and Ken Anderson--otherwise known as the folk duo Hungrytown-- will play a delicious blend of acoustic based folk music with harmonies to die for. Often delicate, often reflective their music comes from the heart and the soul.

Seed Lending Library

The Sutton Seed Lending Library, located in the Sutton Library, is open! We have free open-pollinated, heirloom seeds available to patrons. Browse the collection in our seed catalog, select some seeds, plant them in your garden, and try your hand at seed saving in the fall. By returning some of those seeds to the library, you are helping to continue heirloom varieties and sharing with your community.
